Wi-Fi service suspended near EVMs in Surat after complaint of hacking

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Surat. December 17

THE WI-FI SERVICE at a college was suspended after the Congress candidate from the Kamrei Assembly seat complained of possible hacking and tampering with the electronic voting machines (EVMs), used in the recently held Gujarat Assembly polls, kept on its campus.

Following a complaint by Congress nominee Ashok Jariwala, the Wi-Fi service was suspended on the campus of the Gandhi Engineering College, situated in the Athwa Lines locality.

"We detected that a Wi-Fi network was available near the strong room (in the college), after which we asked the collector to take action," Jariwala said.

He said they had made a similar complaint two days back, after which the collector had ordered the suspension of the Wi-Fi service on the campus. "But we found it active again today. We cannot take a chance as there is a possibility of hacking and tampering with the EVMs," said Jariwala.

Following the complaint, Surat collector and district election officer Mahendra Patel ordered the college authorities to suspend the Wi-Fi service on their campus.
